

Here are some pics of the exhaust mod I did on my bike, I can't say it really gives you any more power but it sounds a lot healthier, not too loud just a nice growl

Before.

A bit messy but a 5mm drill bit does the job.

This is what the tube looks like when you rip it out.

Cleaned out the hole with a grinding bit on the drill.

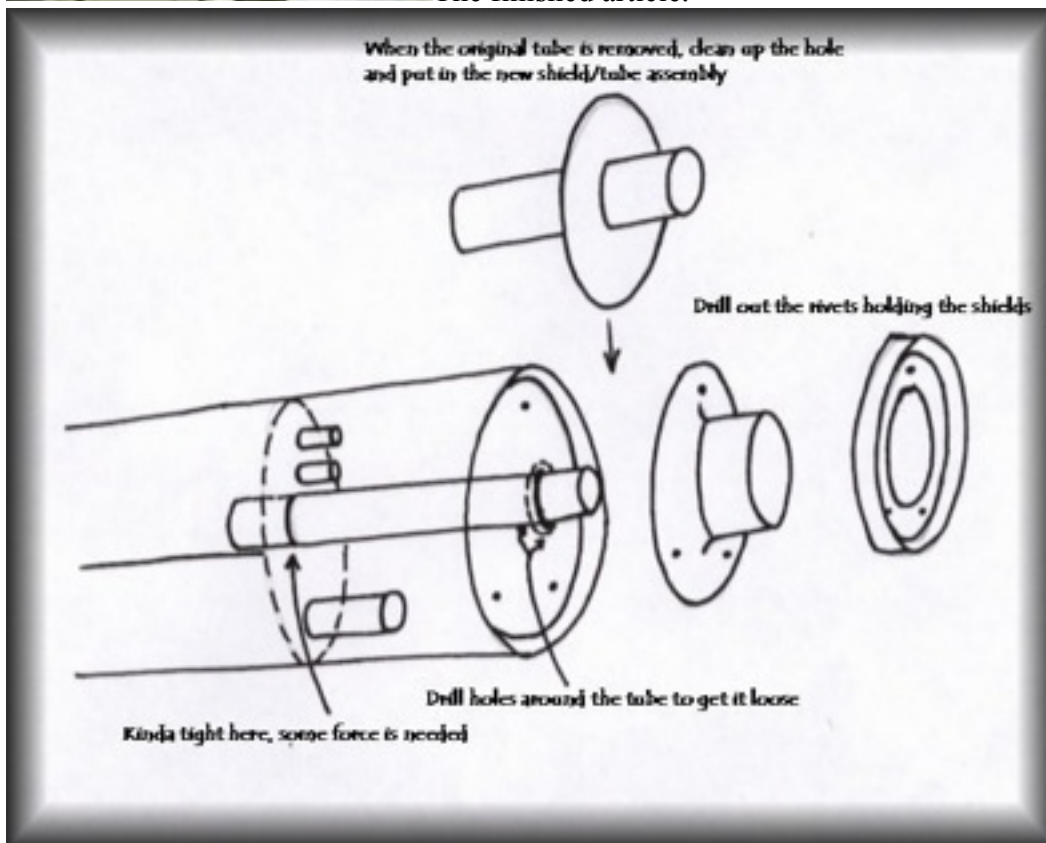

I made these up out of some 32mm pipe and some 2mm flat steel. A press drill and a hole saw were used to get the large hole in the centre.

All the bits painted and polished ready to go back in.
Good idea to use heatproof paint, I used engine enamel but it bubbled up on the first run. Bugger

The finished article.

These pics best describe how it works.

